

Parallel Map of
An impromptu Knowledge Branch of The Fence

Discovery and Arrangement

Hunches and ideas

(from) everyday engagements

The prophet said, 'How long are you going to sit on the fences?

Civil, ancient and modern Walls

Sometimes, WALLS reinforce ideological boundaries.

Sometimes, WALLS could be symbols of division or connection.

Sometimes, FENCES helped to delineate a private land.

A memory about the fall of a Wall.

A section of white fence in a flea market.

An encyclopedia of barbed fence patents.

Physical fences

The natural ground upon which a fence stands

An ideal flat ground

A ground of soil,sand,stone,concrete,bricks,wood/grass

A FENCE (or hardly) stands in an unusual place.

At the edge of a cliff

In the middle of a desert

Alongside the sea

On a glass mountain

Around one single bush

Around a unicorn

In the space

Build a fence with materials

FENCE/ construction/ builders

wooden metal concrete bamboo wire living stone Gabon

Privacy, picket, split rail, wrought iron, chain link, aluminum, block, precast, rolled bamboo, bamboo cane, barbed wire, electric, mesh

wire, hedge, living willow, dry stone, mortared stone, Gabon wall

carpenter fence installer landscape architect stonemason

contractor

Experiences

(from) learned knowledge

“ The gap between the fence and the theory of knowledge imply a potential for imaginative resonance. ”

The symbol of a FENCE

Wood FENCES around a church in The Hay Wain

FENCE around garden of Eden in a medieval painting

A BOUNDARY in a graphic novel

Some people believe that iron FENCES may keep bad luck away.

A feng shui practitioner suggests to instal a FENCE at this location.

A ceremony encircled by stones

Cognition

How to understand what lies beyond boundaries?

personal explanation

When looking at the FENCE, something was floating around it.

Try to explain the existence of that FENCE.

When I tried to discuss what a fence is, I have to pick one perspective to start.

The way how I understand a fence shift a lot.

memory and lucid dreams

Memories play a role in shaping my understanding of fences.

A dream about that fence arouses a realization.

That broken FENCE gave me a sense of bad luck.

A FENCE is a symbol to be unfolded.

Acquisition from communication

Finding out FENCES in conversations across various media.

FENCES often imply rules in communication.

A coded alphabet is an archived FENCE.

I learned about the boundaries in conversation when seeing them in words.

Specific postures and gestures can signal the establishment of boundaries.

In printed matters, FENCES are solidified into meaningful symbols.

Are legislations fences in the form of text?

*Here is a part of my knowledge about FENCES for which I cannot find any parallel branch to classify it under. Science of nature

A pop-up window on my computer screen is a fence that blocks my view.

The FENCES of the system may be tracable in the integration layer.

Metaphysics of bodies?(Confusing classification here)

Mathematices

To me, mathematics seems unrelated to my understanding of FENCES, so i folded this branch simply out of personal will.

Physics

The part of my knowledge about FENCE which I think is related to physics is already classified under the branch 'physical fences' in 'Hunches and ideas'.

Unspoken words

(from) articulated text

Personal records and public texts

If you were to highlight 'FENCES' in a text with a yellow marker, what would you obtain?

A materials list for amending the FENCE
A diary about the FENCE
A social media post asking about the FENCE
FENCES are reported on regarding border measures.
Rock lyrics use the FENCE as a metaphor
A poetry writes, “good FENCES make good neighbours.”
In an ekphrastic depiction, a yellow FENCE emerges under the sky.
A FENCE can uniquely embody specific rules or principles.
“A FENCE serves as th communication gate between human and the aliens.”

In computing, a memory barrier, also known as a membar, memory fence or fence instruction,